IS IT A FINISH FIGHT?

OKLAHOMA CITY SEEMS TO HAVE A COVETOUS EYE ON BYRD'S MILL.

As intimated before Oklahoma City seems to be squarely in the fight for the Byrd's Mill water supply. The mayor, or some one else high in authority, has sent several parties down there to make an investigation. Among these was the state engineer, Mr. Stewart. The latest move was made Saturday when Alexander Poterf, a hydraulic expert from New York, said to be in the employ of Oklahoma City to solve the water problem for that place, and others left Ada before daylight and spent the day making a survey of the site. He is reported to have been well pleased with what he found and his plan embraces the taking in of both Byrd's Mill and Sheep creek. This would furnish an ample supply for a city much larger than Oklahoma City and some interesting things may develop during the next few days. Meantime the mayor and council of Ada should have the united support of the citizenship in whatever move they may make to protect the interests of the town.

J. M. Wintersmith returned from St. Louis this morning.

PRESBYTERIANS OBSERVE UNION ANNIVERSARY

Yesterday marked the first anniversary of the union of the two Presbyterian churches at Ada and it was observed by the united congregation. It had been intended to give a sketch of the history of each, but the records of the First church being lost or misplaced, it was possible to give only the history of the Immanuel church. This was given by Orville Snead. This church was organized as the Cumberland Presbyterian church in 1898 and in 1905 went into the union with the Presbyterian church, U. S. A. Of the original nineteen members of the local congregation, only one, F. W. Russell, now lives here.

A year ago when the two local bodies united there were 77 members of the Immanuel church and 39 in the First church. Since then there has been a net gain of 26.

Rev. J. D. White, the pastor, announced that he hoped to see this anniversary observed every year. He had the roll called and all members present were noted and their names entered on the record, as were those of the visitors.

A. A. Palmer of Konawa, was here this morning on his way to Missouri, where he goes on a visit.

Mel Davis returned from Francis this morning.

Congress Met Today.
Washington, Dec. 4.—At noon Monday the second and closing session of the Sixty-First Congress will begin.

Tonight practically a full quota of members of both branches are in Washington awaiting the formalities which will attend the resumption of legislative activity.

The session Monday will be brief. After the call to order in both house and senate, and the appointment of a joint committee to notify the president that the Sixty-First congress is ready to resume its business recess will be taken as a tribute to members who have recently died.

The president's annual message to congress and the first appointments will not be submitted until Tuesday. Many visitors have arrived to attend the formal opening.

Eugene Price the one-year-old baby of Mrs. May Price has been seriously ill for the past week, but has taken a turn for the better.

Get the Checks—Makes His Get-away on Katy.

Saturday afternoon a man walked into C. J. Warren's jewelry store and asked to look at some watches. He spent some little time in trying to beat Warren down on the price of one he picked out, failing in that finally took one priced at $17. He looked through his pockets and claimed that he did not have the cash with him and wrote a check, signing the name of W. H. Mathis, a farmer living near Ahloso. He talked freely of Ahloso people, evidently being well acquainted in that neighborhood but not being thoroughly satisfied Mr. Warren at once sent the check to the Farmers State bank on which it was drawn and cashed it. Evidently it was a clever piece of forgery. Not satisfied with that the man went to Dennis & Evans' hardware store and bought a gun, giving another check. When this was presented it was found that Mathis's account was overdrawn about $7.00 and knowing that Mrs. Mathis was in town the bank people hunted her up and made an inquiry. This led to the discovery that the checks were forgeries.

Yesterday morning a man was found at the Katy depot who was strongly suspected of being the passer of the bad paper, but as the identification was not complete he was allowed to leave on the train.

AROUND THE COURT HOUSE

The commissioners have been in session today but beyond allowing a batch of claims their proceedings were of little interest to the general public. Commissioner Short was unable to be present today, but will be on hand tomorrow.

Early this morning Judge Barton in the capacity of judge of the juvenile court, heard a case against two small boys from the Maxwell neighborhood who were accused of shooting into a house with target guns. They were arrested and were to be tried before a justice of the peace, but as the law gives the county judge full authority over the cases of juveniles, the cases were brought here. Judge Barton put the boys on probation, required their parents to place them in school and Sunday school at once and the boys to write to him every two weeks.

His subsequent disposition of the cases will depend largely on the conduct of the boys and their parents. Judge Barton is a great believer in fair play and always insists on giving the boys a chance. He seldom fails to make good. In handling probate cases it is the same. He keeps his eye on the interest of the child, and protects it no matter what others think.

The preliminary hearing of Charley Factor, charged with theft of a horse, was set for today, but the defendant being ill, it was necessarily postponed. The hearing of John Jenkins is set for tomorrow, and Charley Baker of Allen, charged with assault with attempt to murder Sid Berninger, is set for Wednesday.

ANOTHER TRAIN ON THE O. C.

PASSENGER TRAIN FROM ADA

TODAY.

Today the O. C. remedied a very bad state of affairs by putting on a passenger train from Chickasha to Ada. The new train will leave Chickasha at 10:45 a. m. and arrive at Ada 2:55. Returning it will leave Ada at 3:30 p. m. and arrive at Chickasha at 7:30 p. m. The present mixed train will continue on the old schedule.

This train will prove a great convenience to the traveling public for the condition heretofore existing had become well nigh intolerable. In fact, we hope that the road will find the additional service a profitable one.

NEGRO STEALS WATCH

CHIEF HOUNSHELL TAKES A SHOT AT THIEF WHO MAKES ESCAPE.

Saturday night while Roy Donaghey, was trying on a suit of clothes at a store he laid his watch conveniently aside thinking it would be safe. However, upon his return for the watch, he found that it and an unknown negro who was in the back part of the house looking at some pants when he placed the watch aside had disappeared.

A description of the thief was given to the officers who are on the look out for him. Yesterday afternoon about the Katy train time Chief Hounshell met a negro near the laundry answering the description. The negro seeing the officer took to flight. Upon his refusal to halt, the chief sent a shot after him, which served only to increase the negro's speed.

At the present time the culprit has not been apprehended and Roy is still minus his $55.00 time piece.

The death of Mrs. Eddy, founder of the Christian Science cult removes one of the most remarkable characters of the age. It is natural for a very few to do the thinking and the remainder constituting the vast majority of the race, follow. By sheer force intellect Mrs. Eddy became the leader of a devoted following that is now spread all over the earth. Of course the whole business is little more than bosh to us unbelievers, so opposed is it to every principle of common sense, but even the death of Mrs. Eddy, who taught that there is no such thing as disease and pain, of pneumonia will not break up the organization or seriously affect it. It has been said that although the Christian Scientists deny the existence of disease, they are all healers, and their school charges handsome fees for teaching its art of healing. Mrs. Eddy left a fortune of nearly a million proving that whether there is anything else in the movement or not, the financial part of it is a complete success.
 She probably believed her own doctrines as firmly as do her disciples and her work will still go forward with energy, while she will be deified as a sort of latter day saint.

Talk about voting a ticket straight.
 Zapata county, Texas, takes the cake. In 1908 and in the recent election every vote cast was republican.
 Not a solitary democrat or socialist in the county. In the November election 462 votes were cast for every man on the state ticket. It is something of a joke on Texas, the banner democratic state, that it contains the banner republican county of the United States.

WHAT OKLAHOMA EDITORS ARE SAYING.

The newspaper war in Oklahoma City is a unique feature of the day.
 With three papers given away free on the streets the business of the newsboy is suddenly transformed.
 The spectacle of rival newsboys almost fighting to give away papers is a sight not often witnessed by the public, but such is the situation in Oklahoma City at the present time.—New State Tribune.

Those who fear Cruce will be dominated by Haskell are worrying about something which will never happen. They are like the old maid who spent many days weeping and when asked what was the matter she responded that she was just thinking how awful it would be if she were to marry, have children and one them should fall into a well and drown.— Vinita Leader.

The fakir you have all the time with you. Wetumka has been afflicted for the past two months with a string of street fakirs who are here each Saturday with their cheap wares or their gambling devices and taking away a large quantity of money each week. Steps should be taken to protect the town against such visitors, as they are a detriment to any city.—Wetumka Gazette.

If some parents would take a nice smooth shingle about two feet long, and use it on the place where it will do the most good on the boy who slips out from home and loafs upon the street at night there would be no need to sing the song of "Where Is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" This would do away with the necessity of a curfew law that the officers do not enforce.—Wapanucka Press.

It is remarkable how rapidly a progressive idea takes hold in Ada when the people are once shown that it is needed to push the interests of the town. When the Byrd's Mill proposition was first brought up some months ago, there was much open opposition to it, but now that the people have had time to give it some thought and realize the necessity of the move, we hear little or nothing said against it. However, the friends of the movement should not take any chance of losing through overconfi-dence but should do all in their power to roll up and overwhelming majority for it when the time comes to vote. This will be the last chance they will have and they had better make the best of it.

We have observed that in the game of politics one must either force recognition as one of the strong men of the organization, or else make such a record as a scrapper that the other fellows will come around seeking to make terms. It's the middle fellow on either side who catches it in the neck.

NEW NEWS OF YESTERDAY

Twilight Reconciliation of Old-Time Political Enemies.

How Thurlow Weed Forgot the Bitterness of the Past and Provided for Edwin Croswell in His Old Age.

BY E. J. EDWARDS.

In the days when Thurlow Weed, as editor of the great Whig organ, the Albany (N. Y.) Journal, was a power in the land, even to being a president maker, his great editorial opponent was Edwin Croswell, editor of the official newspaper of the unofficial, but nationally powerful group of Democrats, including Martin Van Buren, known in the political history of the country as the Albany regency. When Mr. Weed became editor of the Journal he at once vigorously attacked the regency, thereby gaining his first national fame, and at the same time making a personal, as well as a political enemy of Mr. Croswell.

All the years that the two men remained Albany editors—and the years were many, numbering 33 for Mr.
 Weed—they carried their politics into their personal lives. Finally, there came the time when both men retired and Mr. Weed went to New York to live, and there, one day, occurred what was probably the most dramatic of all the many interesting incidents in which the old-time enemies played the leading parts.

Born the same year, 1797, and in the same region, Thurlow Weed had grown up in poverty, with his father confined in a debtor's prison. Edwin Croswell had been petted and admired as a boy, for he was the child of the richest man of the community. But when Mr.
 Weed settled in New York city to spend his closing years, he was the wealthy one and Mr. Croswell the one without a fortune. Indeed, not very long after this a friend went to Mr.
 Weed with a surprising query on his lips.

"Mr. Weed," he said, "do you know that Mr. Croswell, your old-time editorial opponent, is almost in want? He has no fortune and no income, and he is greatly distressed."

"Why," said Mr. Weed, instantly, "that must be attended to; such a situation must not be permitted to exist any longer. I will see some gentlemen of my party, and some, also, who are of my own, and I have no doubt that a fund can be raised which will provide an income sufficient to make him comfortable the rest of his life."

An hour later Mr. Weed was about his mission. Among others he called on was Marshall O. Roberts, who, when it seemed probable that the Atlantic cable project was doomed to failure, told Cyrus W. Field to rely upon him for whatever financial support was needed.

"Mr. Weed," said Mr. Roberts, when he had heard Mr. Weed's story, "I am the owner of a house not far from Washington Square. It is unoccupied, but comfortably furnished. I will not only subscribe to a fund for the support of Mr. Croswell, but I will also make him a life tenant of that house, rent free."

Thus with assistance gained here and there among the leading men of the day, Mr. Weed, in the course of a few weeks, had not only a fund, but a roof, as well, provided for his old enemy's comfort. Then he invited Mr.
 Croswell, who knew nothing of the movement to take care of him, to be his guest in New York, and Mr. Croswell came.

The next morning Mr. Weed took his guest to the Roberts house and showed him all through it. "Edwin," he said at last, "how do you like this house?"

"It is a charming home," was the reply.

"Edwin," answered Mr. Weed, "it is to be your home as long as you live or care to occupy it. Your friends have seen to it that you are to be provided for, and this home is one of the provisions. It isn't a gift, it isn't a charity. It is simply a fair recompense to you for your unselfish service as a public citizen—so unselfish, Edwin, that you have never properly cared for yourself."

For a moment Mr. Croswell looked blankly into Mr. Weed's face, then turned his head to hide his emotion.
 And as he did so he reached out his hand, grasped Mr. Weed's, and buried forever all the bitterness of the past in these words:

"After all, there is nothing outside a man's family life that compares with true friendship, and a true friend I have found in you."

This story, as I have told it, Mr.
 Weed himself told me the last time I chatted with him, a year or so before his death, and the details came out when I stated that I had heard he had done something to put Mr. Croswell in comfortable circumstances. "Yes," confessed the old gentleman—he was then over eighty—"and that is one of the happiest of my recollections."

Wrong Kind of Discipline.

"No," said the baseball manager, "I will not recommend a married man for the position of umpire."

"Why?" inquired the applicant.

"Being married hurts his capacity for quick decisions. It gets him out of the habit of having the last word."

A Last Resort.

"I'm not quite sure whether yours is a constitutional disease or not," admitted the physician.

"That being the case," sighed the invalid, "I'll have to get a decision from the United States Supreme court."

ANSWER

One—the flat, sad, sickly looking one—was baked with poor baking powder; possibly the high-priced kind—possibly the cheap, big can kind. It denotes a lack of leavening gas, or an uneven distribution of same—or both. The other—the large, light, fluffy one—was prepared with Calumet Baking Powder, and denotes the never-failing, delicious baking that always results from its use.

Calumet does not cost as much as the high price baking powder, but it is very much superior in every way—it is purer—more reliable—more healthful. Here are the reasons:

All baking powders undergo a chemical change in the process of baking. You do not take it into the stomach in the same form as it is in the can. For example: When you use Cream of Tartar Baking Powder you get Rochelle Salts in your food, because the Cream of Tartar during this reaction turns into Rochelle Salts. This, as you know, is a drug, and should be taken only under doctor's orders.

Calumet is so carefully and scientifically prepared that the neutralization of the ingredients is absolutely perfect.

That it is absolutely pure and of highest quality is proven by the fact that

Charged With Theft of Warrants.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 4.—Charged with the theft of $2,500 worth of county warrants from Wewoka, Ok., county seat of Seminole county, J. Owens of Wewoka, is held in the city jail in Oklahoma City. George Crump, Jr., and W. F. Rife, both of prominent Wewoka families arrested with Owens, were later released on their recognizance. The warrants were stolen from the office of the Seminole county clerk on Nov. 24. Grand jury indictments, it is said, are now pending against Crump and Rife for the illegal sale of liquor in Wewoka. The men will be taken to Wewoka Sunday.

Mike O'Brien, a detective in the Tegel trial and who is now held under $1,000 bond on a perjury charge in connection with that case is said to have attempted to sell the warrants in Oklahoma City, acting as agent.

The warrants had been presented to G. W. Bailey, attorney, and he was having them examined when Gus Pool, county clerk of Seminole county, out of whose office the warrants were stolen, was notified. Mr. Pool came to this city, and O'Brien, who had attempted to sell the warrants when questioned, told the names of the men from whom he had secured them. The arrests followed.

Mr. Pool said the warrants had been filed alphabetically, and that the file had been rifled from "B" to "M". Some of the warrants have been recovered previously. This is the last of the stolen warrants to be recovered.

Crump, when brought to the police station, refused to talk of the theft of the warrants.

"You will have to find out anything you want to know," he said.

"In the Lee-Huckins hotel I wrote a confession of my part in the deal, and also implicated other men prominent in Wewoka. There is a surprise coming when the others in the deal become known."

The contents of the confession made by Crump have not been made public, but authorities here say that in the confession other prominent men of Wewoka are implicated and that other arrests will be made.

Change in Katy Schedules Coming.

Denison, Tex., Dec. 3.—A readjustment of schedules on the lines of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas road between Denison and St. Louis will follow a meeting of the officials of that road here next week. Two new passenger trains may be installed on the Atoka and Oklahoma City line, and which will give through sleep-er service over the Missouri, Kansas & Texas from Oklahoma City to Texas points. A complete readjustment of passenger schedules in Texas will take place, with possible changes on the important lines of the entire system.

Crawford Has Kick Coming.

In its first published list of the members of the legislature the Oklahoman placed Jno. Crawford with the republicans. That was bad enough, but yesterday that sheet went still further and swapped Crawford's and Beeler's names under their respective likenesses in the paper. Beeler, it will be remembered, is a staunch republican, and it looks like the Oklahoman is going to place Crawford in the republican column anyway.

Lecture at Baptist Church This Evening.

This evening at 7 o'clock Miss Peterson, who has lately returned from Japan where she spent some years as a missionary, will deliver a lecture at the First Baptist church. It will close in ample time to permit those present to attend the concert by the Schuberts at the city hall.

Cynthia Ann Parker Re-Buried.

Lawton, Ok., Dec. 4.—"I welcome you, my friends, who have come here today to honor my mother, Cynthia Ann Parker, who has been dead these forty years," said Chief Quannah Parker, of the Comanche Indians, as he stood upon the altar at the Post Oak Mission church, beside a small white coffin.

"My mother was a good woman whom I always cherished. She has gone to her resting place. I myself, may die any time. When I do I want to meet my mother in the great beyond."

Quannah in detail gave the entire history of the capture of his mother by the Indians. This sermon was first in the Comanche tongue, then in the English. The funeral services were held by the Rev. A. J. Becker, who opened them by leading in a funeral dirge song in the Comanche tongue.

Konewa, a Comanche, then united with the congregation, which packed the mission church to overflowing, in a prayer given in the original language of the tribe. Both the Rev. Mr. Becker and the Rev. E. C. Deyo, Baptist missionary among the Indians gave touching sermons upon the subject of resurrection.

Herman Nappy translated these sermons from the English into the Comanche language. As the half-breed chief led in prayer his lips quivered and he asked the Savior to give the faith to all his people, that when they come to die, they, too, may have a Christian burial, such as he gave his mother today.

Back of the church is an Indian burial ground in which the services finally terminated and the body of Cynthia Ann Parker was placed while the Comanches sang, "Shall We Meet Beyond the River?"

The grave was covered, Quannah then again thanked his white friends for their attendance and the funeral party broke up.

Aviator Meets Death.

Denver, Dec. 4.—Walter Archer, a 17-year-old aviator, fell 700 feet in an aeroplane of his own invention yesterday at Salida, Colo., and was instantly killed, according to a report received here today. Nearly every bone in his body was broken.

Archer's machine was driven by electricity, secured from the Salida Power company's plant. A coil of wire 100 feet long connected the power plant with the aeroplane, and Archer, when he made his ascension, intended to maneuver within the radius of the wires. He ventured a trifle too high and the wires snapped, leaving him without power to operate his propellers. With little experience as an aviator, he lost control of the machine, which turned over, dashing him to death on a pile of rocks below.

Archer had constructed his machine on original lines and built it of odds and ends of material secured from the mines in which his father worked as a miner.

Snow in Middle West.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 4.—The first snow storm of the season and the heaviest in years at this time of year is falling throughout Kansas, Missouri and Southern Illinois tonight. In less than two hours the snow was three inches deep on the level in Central Missouri and without any indication of cessation of the storm. For over two months no rain had fallen in that section and in some places wheat that had been planted for weeks had not sprouted.

It is reported clear and cold at Oklahoma City and other Southwestern points tonight, while in Eastern Arkansas and Western Tennessee it is cloudy with indications of snow. The snow covering St. Louis streets remains unmelted. Rain fell at Paducah, Ky., and other Lower Ohio Valley points tonight.

Durant Cotton Receipt.

Durant, Okla., Dec. 4.—Durant's receipts of wagon cotton now total more than 9,000 bales, while the daily receipts continue unusually brisk. It is anticipated more than 10,000 bales will have been received before Christmas. The impression has prevailed for some time that practically all the cotton has been gathered. County Superintendent of Schools C. L. Neely, who returned Friday from a four days' tour through the northeastern part of the county, reports this is not the case. He says much cotton still remains in the field in the rich black land section of the county. The farmers are so busily engaged picking cotton that the attendance at many of the district schools is seriously affected.

LOW TEMPERATURES THROUGH THIS WEEK

Washington, Dec. 4.—Low temperatures will prevail over the country east of the Rocky mountains during the greatest part of this week, according to the prediction of the weather bureau. West of the Rocky mountains unsettled weather is forecasted without any marked variations in temperature.

The disturbance over the Rocky mountains region today, will advance eastward and is expected to reach the Atlantic states by Monday night or Tuesday.

Following this there will be marked change to colder weather that will spread eastward and southward as far as the gulf states.
